Communicating with Your Legislators: Guidelines and Sample Letter

Final Report Requirement

Every two years, the Washington State Legislature makes funding allocation decisions for all state agencies, including the Washington State Arts Commission. The Arts Commission uses state funds to support grants, and it is important that legislators know how grant funds are used in their communities, and what outcomes the funding supported.

For this reason, all ArtsWA grantees are required to submit a copy of at least one letter to a state senator or state representative as part of their final grant report. The purpose of these letters is to help elected officials understand the return on the state’s investment in the arts and to understand the positive impact in their own communities. These are not “ask” letters.

Letter Writing Suggestions

- Keep your letters to one printed page. You are welcome to use the sample letter (on the reverse) as an example of how to format your letter, but be sure to use your own words.
- Communicate appreciation for the value of the state’s support. If appropriate/accurate, thank legislators for their past support of the arts.
- Share a compelling story about how your work positively affects the community. Some prompts to consider:
  - What benefits are this funding bringing to your community that makes the investment worthwhile?
  - Who is the program or project serving?
  - What are the public benefits (such as providing access for underserved communities, engaging the community in positive ways, improving the economy).
- Consider including a quote from a participant.
- Invite your legislator(s) to observe your arts programming in action.

Timeline and related information

Legislative sessions begin in mid-January every year and run through late April or longer; budget-setting occurs in odd-numbered years. Communications with legislators may get the most attention before the session starts, or early in the session, before significant bill deadlines.
occur. We encourage you to send us a copy of your letter at the time you send it, if you do so in advance of final report season.
