* 18. Participant tuition for this program is $500. Tuition income and support from our funders help us offer tuition at a significant reduction to actual cost, sustain our programming, and pay presenters an adequate rate. TAT Lab also strives towards equity and we value participants regardless of their ability to pay.

In order to increase affordability, we offer a payment plan option, which you can request upon acceptance into TAT Lab.

TAT Lab also offers limited scholarship assistance based on applicants' financial circumstances and our guidelines for application evaluation as outlined here: https://www.arts.wa.gov/tat-lab-core-program/

While TAT Lab does offer scholarship assistance to our Core Program, we also encourage arts and education organizations to sponsor professional development for teaching artists and educators by covering a portion of TAT Lab tuition. (More information on a following page of this application.)

Considering the value of this training for your work, and your ability to pay, would you require a scholarship in order to participate? Answering "yes" will NOT affect acceptance decisions.

* 21. Separate from program scholarships, arts and education organizations are encouraged to sponsor professional development for their teaching artists and educators by covering a portion of TAT Lab tuition.

Is there an organization that might be able to provide a portion of your tuition? Your response will not obligate the organization(s) at this time.

There is a place on the form for them to explain "How long has this person worked for your organization, and in what capacity? Why do you think they'd be a good fit for TAT Lab? Anything else you want us to know about them?" which will help us evaluate your application.

If Yes or Maybe, please reach out to your organization(s) and ask them to fill out the Organizational Sponsorship form, available here.
